Children First Why?

The welfare of children is fundamental to the future sustainable development of every nation in all spheres: economically, politically, culturally, etc. The policy will focus on the various issues relating to children welfare and rights both at the national and at the regional level and major events will impact directly or indirectly the children of Sudan. At the same time the Page welcomes contributions from our readers and in particular from children and youth.

Realising the Global Commitment to Leave No One Behind

Anders Jacobson, Country Director, International Aid Services (IAS) Sudan, welcomed IAS to the Sudan Workshop on Education for All and congratulated Minister of Social Affairs Mr. Hasaan al-Taher for inviting the organization to participate in the event. Mr. Jacobson quoted, "We welcomed the call to achieve "inclusive and equitable quality education for all" and in line with the goal of "Opportunities for all" including persons with disabilities. IAS advocates for inclusive education as a fundamental human right for children of all countries. The Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (UN CRPD, 2006) Article 24 and Global Progress Commit 4 (2016). "inclusive quality education means having one inclusive inclusive scheme of education for all learners irrespective of gender, age, primary, secondary and post-secondary without discrimination and to accommodate learners with disabilities and the existence of quality bilingual education in national native language and written languages" he said.

Sudan Participates in Strategic Framework for Strengthening Workforce for Child Protection in Tunisia

UNICEF: Four Out of Five Children between in the MENA Region are Victims of Violence, 14 Million Children are Out of School, and 29 Million Live Below the Poverty Line

HOMELESS

The National Council for Child Welfare (NCWC) organized a workshop to assess and review Sudan experiences in dealing with children in street and colla workers with the Italian Agency for Develop- ment and Cooperation.

The workshop addressed the issues of children in street and collateral children, beginning the opening of the renewal of the policy of the street children, which will be applied in Khartoum State and then to the different States. The NCWC called for the mobilization of resources and responsibility for the phenomenon of homeless children in the region, particularly in Darfur, South Kordofan and Blue Nile regions in addition to the economic conditions in the country and the role of the government and the policy of children and street children are suffering from mischievous conditions and they are living in unstable abode conditions, tunnels and sewers, besides that they are exposed to physical and psychological abuse, not to mention that they do not have access to education.

Although the efforts carried out by the official agencies in Sudan in alleviating the phenomenon of homeless children in Sudan is still continuing, which pushed many trends to demand finding a different methodology to address it together with its causes and to limit its negative effects. Experts attribute the phenomenon of homeless children to coffee poverty, unstable abode conditions, tunnels and sewers, besides that they are exposed to physical and psychological abuse, not to mention that they do not have access to education.

Despite the efforts carried out by the official agencies in Sudan in alleviating the phenomenon of homeless children in Sudan is still continuing, which pushed many trends to demand finding a different methodology to address it together with its causes and to limit its negative effects. Experts attribute the phenomenon of homeless children to coffee poverty, unstable abode conditions, tunnels and sewers, besides that they are exposed to physical and psychological abuse, not to mention that they do not have access to education.

The head of the Arab Campaign for Education for All, Dr. Mubarak Yahya said, "The engagement of stakeholders across sectors in each country and international collaboration to address these challenges.

The National Council for Child Welfare (NCWC) organized a workshop to assess and review Sudan experiences in dealing with children in street and colla workers with the Italian Agency for Develop-ment and Cooperation.

The workshop addressed the issues of children in street and collateral children, beginning the opening of the renewal of the policy of the street children, which will be applied in Khartoum State and then to the different States. The NCWC called for the mobilization of resources and responsibility for the phenomenon of homeless children in the region, particularly in Darfur, South Kordofan and Blue Nile regions in addition to the economic conditions in the country and the role of the government and the policy of children and street children are suffering from mischievous conditions and they are living in unstable abode conditions, tunnels and sewers, besides that they are exposed to physical and psychological abuse, not to mention that they do not have access to education.

Despite the efforts carried out by the official agencies in Sudan in alleviating the phenomenon of homeless children in Sudan is still continuing, which pushed many trends to demand finding a different methodology to address it together with its causes and to limit its negative effects. Experts attribute the phenomenon of homeless children to coffee poverty, unstable abode conditions, tunnels and sewers, besides that they are exposed to physical and psychological abuse, not to mention that they do not have access to education.